What were the cons

Honestly, we don't have any cons. We were surprised there was no SPA at the hotel. It would not have been something we would have used, but for their higher-end business clients, we have to assume it would be welcome.

Transparency

We often do not let properties know we are travel bloggers, and we did not in this case. We booked the hotel online using our Hilton points and paid nothing for our 5-night stay; loyalty pays.

Upon arrival, we were so blown away by the hotel that we asked to meet with someone to get some background on it, which we did toward the end of our stay. The marketing manager was kind enough to meet with us and give us some fascinating background on the hotel. We received no perks or services beyond what would typically come with our stay.
